Who we are:

Pam Cook Communications offers our clients a comprehensive, customized approach that incorporates and aligns public relations with other branding efforts and corporate goals. We develop and execute a strategic plan that builds upon and enhances our clients' positioning initiatives in order to generate constant, wide ranging media coverage. Our first step involves assessing our client's market position, and how well that position is known by the media and the public. From there we develop a targeted message that supports the branding efforts. In addition to sustaining on-going public relations, PCC specializes in coordinating and promoting press conferences, open house and ribbon cutting ceremonies, corporate mergers and acquisitions, and fundraising events.

Public Relations/Social Media Marketing intern will be given the opportunity to delve into the business side of marketing, entertainment marketing, and public relations. Interns are also offered the chance to participate in brainstorming sessions and meetings and will be looked upon to provide insight based on their experiences and observations. Internships are for credit. Further employment may or may not be available once the internship is completed.

We're looking for organized, detail-oriented, and resourceful individuals with a can-do attitude who are eager to learn about working for a public relations & marketing Agency.
